Health & Happiness to Strengthen our Economy

Amanda Fadero is an experienced and committed NHS chief executive and director with more than 35 years' experience within provider and commissioner organisations.

Leading the bringing together of Primary Care Trusts (PCTs) across the county as the Chief Executive of NHS Sussex, Amanda then worked for NHS England as the Area Director for both Sussex and Surrey.

Following time as both the Deputy Chief Executive and then the Chief Executive at Brighton and Sussex University Hospitals Trust, Amanda has most recently lead the transformation programme within Coastal West Sussex for the Coastal Care Accountable Care Partnership.

Coastal Care is the vision of local system partners to work together to build healthier communities and to create sustainable health and care services for the population of Coastal West Sussex.

Katie Glover has been Chief Executive of Coastal West Sussex Mind for the last few years. Prior to that she has worked for over 30 years as a practitioner and manager in mental health, social care and housing services in London and West Sussex. As well as providing mental health support in the local area Coastal West Sussex Mind also provides a wide range of training services including training for staff and managers around mental health and well-being in the work-place. Coastal West Sussex Mind has also worked with national Mind to deliver resilience training to staff working in emergency services in West Sussex and is currently working with West Sussex County Council to lead Time to Change in West Sussex including promoting the Time to Change Employer Pledge.

Katie has lived in Worthing for the last 15 years and outside of work she pursues a range of interests and activities including running regularly which helps her to stay mentally and physically healthy.

Angela Tanner started her career in Local Government, as an Environmental Health Practitioner over 20 years ago, before developing her consultancy, Anisclo Ltd. Having been a senior manager within local Government and through her consultancy clients, Angela has experience in working with a range of stakeholders: she has been invited to Geneva, Montreal and Vancouver to act as an advisor to the World Health Organisation; she has been Chair for the Work Related Death Protocol multi-agency South East Region Committee; she was appointed as the Single Point of Contact on Public Health for the Sussex Chief Environmental Health Officers. In the latter capacity Angela also represented the Sussex CEHOs on the Health and Safety Executive's South Eastern Regional Stakeholders Group with a special focus on the National Workplace Wellbeing Charter. She now offers interim management support and tailored services aiming to improve compliance, health and wellbeing in a range of public and commercial organisations.
